

In December Maryland officially became the eighth CSA 2010 Operational Model test state.

The 21,290 carriers domiciled in Maryland will now be assessed using the new Safety Measurement System. Any safety problems that are identified will be addressed using the new CSA 2010 interventions process. The new interventions include warning letters, offsite investigations and on-site focused investigations in addition to the on-site comprehensive investigations used to address carriers with the most serious safety problems.

Being prepared for roadside inspections and DOT audits is essential ... this information-packed manual gives the guidance you need!

It explains the six levels of roadside inspections and what each one involves. It also discusses what the results mean, what the penalties are, and how drivers should conduct themselves during inspections.

As for DOT audits, the manual covers these essentials:

- SafeStat - how carriers are selected for DOT audits, how data is weighed, overall SafeStat scores
 - Compliance Review - Part 385: Safety Fitness Procedures, the DOT audit process, proof of financial responsibility
 - Safety Rating - determining a carrier's rating, proposed ratings
 - Carrier Response - corrective actions, implications of results
 - Fines and Penalties - fine and penalty provisions, how fine amounts are determined
- Self-audit checklists are also included to help you pinpoint any compliance gaps. Plus, the manual includes New Entrant Safety Audits regulation information.

Brand new book coming April, 2010. This book is being revised to be a complete source for your CSA 2010 compliance. It will discuss the 7 BASICs, proposed Interventions, the new scoring, as well as the new Safety Measurement System (SMS) portal that replaces SafeStat.
